Produce of the Month: Asparagus

The name asparagus comes from the Greek word meaning "sprout" or "shoot". Greeks and Romans cultivated asparagus over 2,000 years ago and valued the vegetable for its unique flavor and texture as well as its apparent medicinal uses. Asparagus is loaded with nutrients: fiber, folate, Vitamins A, C, E, K and B6. It can also be used as an anti-inflammatory agent, heart and blood pressure regulation and digestive support. California produces a significant (nearly 75%) of the asparagus for the United States. The asparagus grown in California is most available between the months of March and June each year. California asparagus is shipped within hours after harvesting; specially designed crates are cartoons are made to ensure the asparagus arrives safely to its final destination.
